WASHINGTON NEWS.

The Bargain to Make Chaffee Teller's Successor.

Passage of the Chinese Bill by the House.

Anti-Polygamy Bill Signed by the President.

BRUCE'S EXAMINATION

WASHINGTON March 23 —The examination of Shipherd was resumed He stated he would waive the objection he had raised and would state that the senator to whom he had alluded was Blair of New Hampshire He further stated that with one exception there was no other senator or member of congress who had been in any way interested as counsel or had been approached with a view to securing his services This gentleman Shipherd said was still to act as counsel and declined on the ground that he might be called upon as a member of congress to pass upon the claims of the Peruvian company With this exception and that of Senator Blair there was no other instance of any effort to secure the services of a member of either house of congress Blunt inquired What were your reasons for employing Senator Blair as counsel? Witness objected to relation with the secretary of state as simply in his capacity as attorney Witness replied that he would like to reserve his answer till the committee should have decided whether this matter should be gone into at the present time Blount then asked what was the inducement which impelled him to secure the services of the member of congress who had declined whether it was on account of supposed influence with the executive or for the purpose of obtaining his advice Witness said It was for reasons purely personal to the member himself as distinguished from any aid he might render in my capacity as member of congress Witness declined to give the name at present and demurred to stating the details of any purely personal transaction Some discussion on the part of the committee as to whether they should pursue this branch of inquiry at present The chairman stated Shipherd could be excused from further examination this morning on account of his health and both parties would be better to press on this request then proceed with further examination The question was therefore waived for the present Witness produced a copy of his (witness) letter to the president of May 21st and explained that it had been sent him by his son who had been requested to make a copy from his letter book The letter was then read by the clerk It was quite long and referred in detail to the claims and plans of the Peruvian company The letter referred to inclosures, naming the prospectus of the company, the draft of agreement with Peru the chain of title of the Peruvian company and stated it was deemed best to lay the whole matter before the president and to await such suggestions as he might deem proper to make on the premises that no difficulty was anticipated in the settlement of differences without asking further government and than that directly indicated It spoke of the magnitude of the interests involved and estimated the value of the guano at one thousand million dollars and indicated that it was expected Grant would be president of the company and that its board of directors would include gentlemen equally well known at the capital At the conclusion of the reading Shipherd said he had been engaged in a block fight with monopolists which had deprived him of rest and subjected him from fatigue He would therefore crave the indulgence of the committee and asked to be excused for the day. Adjourned

CABINET RUMORS

NEW YORK March 23—The Tribune's Washington correspondent says 'Grant has been here barely twenty four hours yet rumor has it he is urging the nomination of Lowe instead of Chandler, for the secretary of the navy, and that he has effected the postponement of the nomination of Teller as secretary of the interior until measures can be taken to secure the appointment of Chaffee to fill the vacancy in the senate"

WASHINGTON March 23—The report being circulated that the nomination of Senator Teller as secretary of the interior was contingent upon the agreement of Governor Pitkin of Colorado to appoint Chaffee to the vacancy in the senate caused by Teller's acceptance, Colorado men say, if Teller's appointment depends on Chaffee's selection to succeed him, he will not become one of the president's constitutional advisers, because Governor Pitkin is a candidate for the senate and would not like to appoint a man who would be likely to interfere with his prospects for the full term beginning March 4, 1887 The question will probably be settled when Chaffee arrives

Ex Senator Chaffee of Colorado, was on the floor of the senate this afternoon It is said he is here to meet Grant and others in relation to the appointment of Teller as secretary of the interior It was stated to day in high political circles that if Governor Pitkin, of Colorado, will consent to appoint Chaffee senator, Teller will at once be nominated. Telegrams opposing Chaffee's appointment have been sent from here by leading Colorado republicans Senator Hill and Representative Pettigrew have warned Pitkin against the appointments of Chaffee Hill says he has no objection to the appointment of Teller and could not oppose him, but is satisfied his people don't want Chaffee as senator

NEW YORK March 23 —A Washington correspondent says It has leaked out that there are some curious complications growing out of the proposed appointment of Teller for secretary of the interior It appears Grant Logan and a number of prominent republicans were desirous that Chaffee should be appointed to the position and they presented his name to the president who said he would give the matter full and careful attention After weighing the subject for some time he came to the conclusion that it was not expedient to make the appointment which the gentlemen urged The disappointment of Grant and Logan was naturally very great and the president in order to make amends as far as possible suggested that he had no objection to the appointment of Teller to the position and that he presumed that Teller's friends and the people of Colorado could in fact thus govern of that state to appoint Chaffee as Teller's successor This seems entirely satisfactory to Chaffee and friends especially to Grant and Logan Teller was requested to call at the White House last Saturday and the president made him a formal tender of the position on condition that Chaffee should be appointed by the governor as his successor This fact coming to the knowledge of Senator Hill and Representative Belford they set to work immediately to frustrate it and it is said that some lively telegraphing has been going on for the past twenty four hours between Washington and Colorado Senator Hill called at the White House yesterday but failing to see the president left word with a clerk to the effect that the appointment of Teller under the conditions named would be very distasteful to the republican party of Colorado, and both he and Belford entered their solemn protests against such an arrangement Thus matters remain at present In the meantime Governor Pitkin is understood to be undecided as to what course he shall pursue in regard to the appointment of Chaffee in the event of Teller's nomination He is understood to be very desirous as also the people of Colorado that they should secure the important office of secretary of the interior, and that this fact may induce the governor to waive his objections and appoint Chaffee, as requested If ex Teller's appointment will follow Should however opponents of Chaffee—Hill, Belford and others—prevail upon the governor to decline to accede to the request of Chaffee and friends the probabilities are that Teller will not get the position

WESTERN MAILS

NEW YORK March 23 —Postmaster General Howe was interviewed this morning to gauge the proposed reduction of time in sending mails to and from New York to San Francisco and other western points I have not yet said Howe of congress mail appropriations proposed by the senate for special facilities for transportation of mails on the trunk lines that we may arrange a schedule which will send mail from New York to the west or San Francisco and get a return in three days less time than it takes now It takes 13 days at present to do this Now mails are carried on railway trains and go when the passenger trains go Thus subjects mails to slow time and frequent delays Mails for the west now lie in Chicago about four hours and in Omaha and Kansas City four hours more Railway companies themselves will have to be consulted as to the method of overcoming these delays whether it shall be done by chartering one fast train between New York and Denver, overtaking the Union Pacific twenty four hours ahead of the present time or whether it shall be done by expediting all passenger trains between here and the Pacific the questions to be answered only by the railroad companies themselves The public ought to have the service the department wants to supply it if the appropriation suggested will pay for it The time of transporting mails to the Pacific will have to change with railway schedules In Boston at one meeting it was the opinion that the one fast mail to Chicago should start from New York the only time it can start is in the morning about 4 30 o'clock, arriving in San Francisco at 7 30 a m, five days later We don't care to send mail matter to Chicago in less than twenty four hours My theory is to lay back on the trunk lines between the two oceans and then put on attachments or improvements as fast as we can

POLYGAMY BILL SIGNED

WASHINGTON March 23—The president has approved the anti polygamy bill

THE MISSING LETTER

WASHINGTON, March 23—Following is the full text of the missing letter about which Shipherd yesterday announced there must be some fatality

March 21, 1882

SIR.—I enclose herewith the first section out of—first the prospectus of the Peruvian company, second, draft of the memorandum for agreement with Peru, third, discussion of title The Peruvian government having no diplomatic agent here I have been in free consultation with its senior representative, Don Tracy, consul in the city Tracy is the son of an American merchant formerly resident at Lima and married to a Peruvian lady, and was born and bred in Peru For something like twenty five years he has held his present position and seems to be very intelligent as to both Peruvian and Chilian affairs, and certainly is keenly alive to Peruvian interests As to the Cochet claim, he says this is little known to the present generation having disappeared from the contest in '53 when Cochet returned to France and being almost immediately succeeded by the Landreau claim there is no disposition to contest it when presented as we are now ready to present it since we shall come to the relief of the prostrate at a most critical moment Of course he speaks for his own people only Chili, flushed with victory and destroying with wanton zest whatever she cannot deport, will scarcely submit to surrender her great prize even when offered as we offer her, liberal war indemnity But the issue is between commercial creditors with unfulfilled rights and famishing nations and in the solution however distasteful to the vanquished on the victor will be easy Moreover Chili gives signs that Chili herself is not content with the present outlook All the neighboring republics are now jealous of her and if by attempted annexation or protectorate she should seek permanent enlargement of her area she would but enter on a long and perilous contest If on the other hand she should now rest the having at least tasted all legitimate fruits of real victory and with her wonderful abilities it would be a fortunate ending for her as well as for the others Latest advices indicate more than ordinary anxiety in high quarters at Santiago to find some satisfactory solution of the serious problem of what disposition is to be made of the vast interests of my clients are pretty much entirely their protection involves an outside interference of such magnitude that they see no other course so proper as to lay before the president all the facts and avail themselves at every step of such formal or informal suggestions as he may think fit to favor them with As far however, as they have planned for themselves they have planned not to avoid all complication, and if supported by general assurances that the executive will protect them so far as he finds them to be right they anticipate no difficulty in peacefully harmonizing all interests by direct commercial negotiation without other governmental aid than those stated An examination of papers herewith submitted will show valuation in outline to be thus off set and are legal representatives of indebtedness from Peru to the original discoverer of guano amounting to something like $1 000 000 000 Under the Peruvian government this claim is entitled to priority of payment over any and be like a consecrated since 1843 The owners of the claim organized into a proper corporation propose to take possession of guano and rich nitrate beds and work out their money without complications At the same time they are ready to assume $500 000 000 of foreign bondholders and a fair nationality to Chili to pay these off from a sinking fund of a liberal amount payment to begin in 1883 The embarrassing features of the situation at the moment are the ambulance of decisive final acts at Lima and the uncertainty of the provisional Peruvian government We hope to be able to send out a representative by steamer sailing the 10th of June but as congress convenes this week he may only arrive after definite measures are already agreed on Whether or not communication between the department of state and the minister at Lima by cable cipher might save hostilities pending transmission of full dispatches the president upon due advice will determine I will attend at such conferences as the president may think proper to appoint The executive organization of the Peruvian company will probably be determined within the next thirty or forty days My clients remain anxious for the time being for ordinary business reasons I may properly say to the president that the presidency of the company will probably be offered to ex President Grant and the question through me will be conducted in hands not less competent and gentlemen scarce less known The magnitude of the interests involved and the quasi national character of the corporation will at no time be forgotten I have thought it proper to submit an outline of the case in advance of personal conference, that the president might wholly, at his own convenience, give them attention and might direct its future consideration by correspondence or otherwise

I have the honor to remain the president's obedient servant

[Signed] JACOB R SHIPHERD

To the President.

P S —It is our policy to maintain strictly the reserve suggested upon the cover of the prospectus for the present

It is the general impression that Shipherd has but very little more to communicate touching the subject of inquiry

ADMISSION OF DAKOTA

OPERA HOUSE

An Artistic and Pleasing Performance Rendered by the Troubadours

The opera house was crowded last night to witness the initiatory performance given by the Colorado Springs Troubadours an organization composed entirely of local talent Since the appearance of the Big Four minstrels during the early part of the winter, there has not been a performance given in the opera house that seemed to better please the audience assembled From opening to finish the programme abounded with local hits and sketches that could not help but delight those present There was manifested on the part of the participants throughout the entire performance a thorough drilling and a careful desire to personate the characters assigned them

In the introductory overture the actors to the number of eighteen, appeared upon the stage seated and dressed in the regulation negro minstrel style

Part first of the programme consisted of solos and choruses both comical and serious, interspersed with jokes of an entirely original nature Many of the local hits brought down the house, while with one or two exceptions the choruses were encored

Notwithstanding the confusion noticeable at the conclusion of the first part, the 'Blue-man's Tournament' took well, although it was evident that many did not realize the full meaning of the joke

Following the zither solo rendered by George R Kroning, which was well received, came the 'Soldier's Farewell,' rendered by a sextette composed of Messrs McComb Webb Barnes, Stout, Pitts and Thornell This was really one of the most taking features of the programme and the participants were well deserving of the encore accorded them

'Rival Tenants" was the title of a farce in which Messrs C H Austin, H I Wilson W R Thornell and F W D Stovell assumed the principal parts, the two former manetaking the leading characters—Mr Dillman and Mr Staples. They both displayed a careful and comprehensive study of the parts assigned them really the nearest approach to a professional effort given during the evening Ridgely has more negro talent about him than appeared upon the stage Both W R Thornell in his "Troubadour's Lament' and A J Webb in his speech were well received.

"Keep Away from Here" a character sketch rendered by Mr. Kroning and Ridgely Mc-

Mr William H Macomber brought down the house with his local songs and he was recalled three times before the audience was satisfied In both music and composition these songs were original and upon each encore he introduced something new

To conclude an Ethiopian burlesque entitled Helen's Funny Babies was rendered in which the several characters were taken by J W D Stovell C H Austin W R Thornell A J Webb W I Pitts and R H Ridgely All of the parts were well sustained especially that of Buddie personified by J W D Stovell

Major W H Macomber is deserving of much credit for the successful manner in which the performance was carried out From the start he has conducted the rehearsals and urged upon those participating the necessity of being perfect in familiar with their part Captain W B Tuttle has labored incessantly to insure the success of the affair while A A Adams gave general satisfaction in the capacity of stage manager As a whole the performance was exceedingly well prepared and a fundome sum will be realized for the benefit of the base ball organization

THE FRIEND OF KEATS

Unveiling of the Monument to the Painter in the Cemetery at Rome

The Roman correspondent of the London Times gives this account of the unveiling at Rome on March 9 of a monument to Joseph Severn the friend of Keats and the Protestant cemetery where the poet and the painter sleep side by side This monument has been provided by subscribers both in England and America under the auspices of Lord Houghton who was on his way to preside at the meeting when he was stricken down so suddenly at Athens

On the anniversary of Leo XIII's coronation some 200 English and American residents and visitors in Rome started amid a heavy downpour of rain to witness the unveiling of Joseph Severn's monument It was feared that the ceremonial would be reduced to mere formality, carried out before a number of persons shut up in close carriages but, happily, as they drove out the clouds broke and the weather cleared The iron grates of the poet and the painter were covered with wreaths laid by loving hands the box hedge surrounding them was thick with flowers strewn over it and the headstones were covered with violet veils of pinkish with jonquils and narcissus When all had gathered round Mr A Trollope stepped forward in behalf that all would share in the regret he felt in being called upon to address them on this occasion, when they heard that the cause of it was the illness they very sorrowfully feared which had overtaken Lord Houghton at Athens and prevented his being present He could not be sad, hope to supply his place, but he could merit their indulgence by being brief Some years ago subscriptions had been simultaneously collected in England by the sister of Sir Bartle Frere and in America by another lady, each singularly enough, ignorant of the step taken by her fellow laborer of the poet, for the purpose of putting the grave of Keats into befitting order, how the wish of thousands on both sides of the Atlantic had been lovingly carried into effect by the late Sir Vincent Eyre. He then gave a sketch of the painter's career and death as the monument was being unveiled He read the inscription written by Lord Houghton and indebted for some suggestions to Alfred Tennyson, and concluded by saying that though Severn, during the half century he had lived in Rome, had been acquainted with most of the men of note, Shelley, Byron Walter Scott, and others who had come here, it needed no anreole of glory to recommend his countrymen to his good offices and kindness and it might safely be asserted that among the thousands who during that half century had come into contact with him he had never made an enemy

Mr W W Story, the distinguished American sculptor then advanced to day, he said, his humble wreath upon those graves He continued

"It is now more than sixty years since Keats was laid beneath this sod and here, after a long life consecrated to art, his friend at last is laid beside him A friendship more devoted an attendance more unselfish than that which our friend, whom we now lay here, gave to the great English poet it would be difficult to find To us, looking at it after this long lapse of time and in the full light of the fame which now illumines the name of Keats, the honor might seem to have been conferred by the poet who thus threw the reflected light of his own genius on his friend, the painter But it was not so then His star had scarcely risen and risked along the horizon obscured by the mists of doubt, detraction and neglected genius Beside the constellated splendor of Byron's genius it seemed to those who saw it first as but of minor magnitude. But even then it was recognized by Severn who hailed it in its rising and prophesied its future glory'

"I must pass over his sketch of Severn's career, the encomiums he passed on his merits as a painter and his good qualities as a man In concluding he said

'I am sure all present will share with me in the deep regret that Lord Houghton, to whom we owe a biography of the great poet and the collection of many previously unpublished poems, is not present on this occasion, and will still more deeply regret the illness which has caused his absence. Standing as we do by these graves, let us pray that another grave is not thrown open before us for still another distinguished poet, another most courteous and accomplished gentleman'

'A small tree, like that behind Keats' tombstone, was then planted by Mr Trollope behind Severn's grave and the ceremonial concluded by a few grateful words of thanks, by Mr Walter Severn on his own part and that of his brother to those who were present, to the Syndic C Ruspoli for the assistance they had given him in carrying out the long-expressed desire of his father which he remembered from his earliest boyhood"

The Hibernia mine at Leadville has been sold at sheriff sale and bid in by C J Rowell at $20,502 23.

President Arthur seems to be trying to give New York three senators and to cut Colorado down to one.

The Chinese must not come, the new bill says. This is perhaps a better cry than the "Chinese must go." The limit of the prohibition is twenty years, but this may be changed at any time by congress.

The Leadville Herald says the Leadville sentiment is for Mr. Chaffee for Teller's successor. This is probably due to the excellent work done by Mr Chaffee in New York in 1880 to give capitalists confidence in her mines.

The polygamy bill is now a law. For twenty-five years the republican party has passed resolutions against polygamy at its national conventions, but this is the first decisive step toward stopping the evil. It is to be hoped that the practical working of the bill will meet the expectations of its framers.

We publish a call for a caucus on Tuesday night. The call states the purposes of the party and invites all sympathizing with it to be present and participate in its deliberations. The platform is a very good one except on the sewerage question, which ought not to be brought into the election in this way. It expresses the sentiments of a large number of conservative people.

The Denver Tribune says: "If a man is appointed to succeed Senator Teller from "the south, his name should be William S. "Jackson." This is a good suggestion to Governor Pitkin. Mr Jackson has the ambitement, education and training which would make him a useful and honored representative of the state in the senate. His appointment would be generally recognized as made entirely on merit and not for the ordinary political reasons. If the appointment, however, is to be made through political pressure or personal canvass, it will probably fall elsewhere.

The special dispatches to the Denver Republican of yesterday and our dispatches of this morning all seem to indicate that the appointment of Mr. Teller to the cabinet is dependent on the appointment of Senator Chaffee by Governor Pitkin to the senate. If this be true Mr. Teller is not likely to go into the cabinet. Under such circumstances the appointment of Mr Teller is neither an honor to him or to the state. It is simply an effort to honor Mr Chaffee and Senator Teller is simply used for this purpose. Had the offer been given him originally to Senator Teller, he might have felt honored, but he cannot feel so now.

The Mountaineer has the following very definite and common sense views regarding the delegate convention: "Any man who "knows anything at all about politics knows "that the professional politician delights in "nothing more than he does in a delegate "convention. By the simple process of wire "pulling the convention can be manipulated "with perfect ease, while the mass meeting is "the free expression of the sentiments of the "people. The proposition was first made "under the guise of a communication by 'A "Citizen,' or 'A Voter,' or something of that "character. Now, while we have no knowledge of the writer's identity, we wouldn't "mind wagering a nickel with a hole in it, "that he is an aspirant for a city office, whose "only hope of success lies in his ability to "manipulate a delegate convention. Instead "of there being a 'growing sentiment in favor "of a delegate and not a mass convention,' "we are free to say that the intelligent voters "of Colorado Springs have no intention nor "desire to delegate their powers to any set of "men."

DEAF MUTE INSTITUTE

We have wished to avoid any reference whatever to the alleged scandal published in the Denver Republican in the beginning of the week. But as the Republican alluded to it again yesterday in commenting on Dr. Buckingham's letter, some reply seems to be called for. The charge in the Republican was made by an ex-pupil of the institution, Simmonds by name, who is not responsible. The Mountaineer of yesterday gave an account of Simmonds' career at the institution, which shows the animus of the charge by him. Dr. Buckingham, the president of the institution, wrote a letter from here after a careful investigation, together with Messrs France and Stewart, denying the charge in full. The letter was a complete vindication of the management of the superintendent and matron. The Republican replies by saying that the investigation was one sided because Simmonds was not summoned. This was unjustifiable, because it was wholly unnecessary to summon Simmonds as he has only been at the institution once since he left in May, 1881. Besides the simple fact that Mr. Stotts, the father, was at the marriage and that it was by his approval was sufficient answer to the charge of Simmonds that an imbecile boy was to be married to a girl to cover up her improper relations with others in the institution. Under such circumstances Mr. Stotts would not have consented to the marriage of his son. But when it was done at his request, it was the simplest kind of a vindication. It is unnecessary to state anything more than this. The Republican should have accepted it as a final answer to Simmonds' statement and acknowledged its error in ever publishing the charges. But it did not do so and has acted very unjustly. The reputation of a mute girl is as dear and valuable as that of any girl. She is now the honored wife of the man who loved her and has gone to the home of his father, who is a rich and estimable citizen of northern Colorado. To let such charges stand under the circumstances cannot be too strongly condemned. It was mean to allow such an attack on the character of a defenceless girl to appear in a paper without careful examination, and it was meaner yet not to withdraw the charges when they were proven false. The writer was present at the wedding and talked with the father and knows that Dr. Buckingham's statements were correct. He naturally shares the indignation felt by the management of the deaf mute institute at the course of the Republican. It was an irresponsible attack on an innocent girl, a faithful management and a useful state institution. The Republican is correct in stating it has a right to criticise the management of a state institution, but it has no right to publish such defamatory articles without the most careful investigation. Parents who have children at the institution, and may have seen the article in the Republican without the answer, might feel insecurity for the welfare of their children. It creates a bad impression of the institution throughout the state. Therefore such charges should not be made unless truth is fully assured.

We wish to add a word further. We inspected the institution carefully, Wednesday, and found abundant evidence of careful, faithful and healthful management. We say also that the trustees are carefully attending to their duties. The president, Dr Buckingham, says in his letter, "As to the internal "management and workings of the institute, "they are as familiar to me as my own private "business, and nothing could be hidden from "me, owing to the fact that I have visited "it more than thirty times during the past "eight years, and have made it my business to keep myself fully informed in regard to everything in connection with it." The same is even more true of the trustees Messrs. France and Stewart, who reside in this city. They are careful, attending to their duties, and there is no danger of improper or unwise management. Dr Buckingham, in his letter, says: "These gentlemen "unite with me in bearing testimony to the "faithfulness, kindness and parental care of "Mr. and Mrs. Kennedy, the superintendent "matron, over all the children under their "control." We are glad to notice that the unjustifiable attacks in the Republican have not been generally copied, and where they have, we trust care will be taken to do justice to the institution by publishing the vindication of Dr. Buckingham.

DEADLY WAYS OF DRESSING.

A Crusade Against Corsets, Petticoats, Tight Boots and Twenty-Button Gloves.

London Post, February 27.

A lecture on the present style of dress was delivered by Mr. Fiederick Treves at Kensington on Saturday, under the auspices of the National Health society. The lecturer observed that the primary objects of clothing to cover the body and maintain it at an equitable temperature have little or no concern in some of the dresses of the period. In the low evening dress the arms, neck and upper part of the chest and back are bare, while about the lower extremities is accumulated a mass of raiment that would garb a dozen children. In the ordinary dress of women little regard is had for maintaining an equable temperature of the body. The covering of the upper part of the chest above the rim of the corset is very thin, perhaps that of the dress only. The region of the corset is reasonably covered, while about the hips many layers of clothing are massed. Thus the body may be divided geographically into a frigid, a temperate and a torrid zone. As regards tight lacing Mr. Treves said if the most beautiful female outline is that of a young animal with slender cloped woman, then a narrow waist is hideous. A miniature waist is a deformity under any circumstances, and few deformities are pleasing. The waist is an inflexion of the body between the lower ribs and the hip bone. No normal woman is waistless, although its conspicuousness depends somewhat on development. Children have normally no waist, and a tight laced child is a gross and pitiable deformity. The normal waist has a circumference of about 28 or 29 inches; the "elegant" waist should be 20 inches, the waist measurement of dress makers' lay figures now varies from 21 inches to 23 inches. Those who wish to improve their figures by stays have before them the conception of a 20-inch waist Venus. To the outline of the hour glass shape a goddess, they aspire. The normal waist is quite oval, the fashionable waist quite round. Woman with miniature waists who maintain that such waists are natural to them and are independent of art, must have been born deformed. No person enters this world with a ready made fashionable waist. As regards health, the tapering waist is effected mainly by a compression of the five lower ribs, these ribs being more movable than all the rest. There is a popular delusion to the effect that there is plenty of empty space inside the body, and into this space the displaced organs are pushed in tight lacing. Tight lacing means a compression, not of skin, muscle and bone, but of liver, stomach and lungs. Even a slight amount of constriction affects these organs, and stays that are by no means tight lessen the capacity of the chest for air. Post mortems on tight laced show the liver deeply indented with the ribs, and more or less seriously displaced. The stomach is also commonly affected, as, too, are the lungs. The diseases that commonly result are chronic dyspepsia, liver derangements, disturbances of nutrition, etc. Tight lacing, moreover, renders more or less useless the diaphragm or principal muscle of respiration. The breathing powers of the narrow-waisted are always seriously impaired, and hence follows possibly the languor, the inability for exertion, the tendency to faint, etc. The circulation, moreover, is interfered with, and certain cases are reported of death from apoplexy in young women who have tight laced. Stays injuriously affect the muscles of the back. These muscles become wasted because their function, that of supporting the spine, is absorbed by the corset, and they exhibit the usual changes of muscles that have been long disused. Thus the back is actually weakened by the use of stays, and those women who maintain that they can not do without the support of stays, in the use of the argument of the opium-eater, who, after having by indulgence developed a craving for the drug, asserts that he cannot do without it. Under no circumstances do young girls require stays, and to the bulk of young women also the same remark applies. A modified corset, composed merely of some stiff material, and devoid of all bands and whalebone, etc., may be used by those who incline to stoutness, or whose busts are prominent, and by women who have been mothers. Such a corset or bodice would merely give that slight amount of support required for comfort and appearance. The lecturer next referred to shoes and boots, and denounced pointed toes and high heels. He thought the amount of clothing usually worn by women—was—far great, and that the number of petticoats was often excessive. These garments have for their primary object the protection of the lower extremities, but if additional warmth is required for these parts surely the use of an extra petticoat or so is not the most sensible way of supplying it. Not only do petticoats add greatly to the weight of dress to be carried, but they throw a very injurious burden on the hips around which they are attached. Several petticoats suspended layer by layer about the waist cannot have other than an injurious effect upon health and the evil is especially obnoxious in young girls, in whom the hips are narrow and in whom the garments cannot be properly supported without a considerable amount of constriction of the waist. If these garments must be worn, let them be attached to a bodice, or let them be suspended from the shoulders by a modified form of braces. A far more sensible way of clothing the lower extremities is provided by the so called "combination" garment, which is a most valuable addition to reasonable and healthy dress. Gloves, with a fabulous number of buttons, that never nearly the entire arm, and with closeness of fit, and with impermeability of structure, must seriously interfere with the action of the skin of the upper extremities. There was need of a dress both sensible and pretty, and the evolution of such a dress would appear to be at present somewhat hindered by the action of these very persons who oppose fashionable costume. The Greek dress somewhat recently introduced was not only extremely graceful, but it was also healthy, and may, with some little ingenuity, be adapted to all the circumstances of every day life.

A Japanese "Punch"

A native Japanese paper entitled the Maru Maru Chimbun has taken to the publication of satirical cartoons, referring to prominent topics, somewhat after the fashion of our English comic papers. One of the latest of these, representing a caricature of three men with their heads wrapped in cotton towels, is entitled "Hashi Chiken." These words, according to the explanation of the picture given in the Japan Weekly Mail, "signify the Dentist Chiken, but may also be taken to mean 'abolition of colonization commission and establishment of prefecture.'"

Bracelet Parties.

Parisian, February 28.

The latest fashion among the Paris youths of aristocratic pretensions is a sort of dinner of the "bracelet." A party of about a dozen young prodigals club together and each subscribes one hundred francs. With this capital they purchase a bracelet of unique and tasteful design. They then prepare a dinner at some fashionable restaurant, to which they invite an equal number of ladies the wittiest and prettiest and wickedest of their acquaintance. After the meal had been partaken of, with all its accessories of gay badinage and repartee, the bracelet is put up in a lottery. Of course there is decided excitement as to its destination. If a woman is the happy recipient, well and happy, but if it falls into the hands of a man, then follows the rivalry of the feminine guests of whom he will give it. The "bracelet" dinners are, of course, very popular, and one would think that they would be speedily adopted by the more moral portion of society.

Turned Up

Denver Chieftain

As the Chieftain predicted Chaffee has turned up once more in Washington The attention of the Denver Tribune is very respectfully invited to this fact

Petitioning

Denver Times

Numerous republicans assert that they would like to sign a petition to Governor Pitkin or resign so that his successor might appoint him to succeed Senator Teller

Cameron's Hand

Denver Tribune

Cameron seems to be manufacturing the Teller boom Also the Chaffee boom If Don has any letters this summer he ought to drop out this way and harmonize our state if he Colorado is always grateful for the assistance of giants but he is from Missouri

Don't Believe It

Denver News

In another column our Washington correspondent throws a flood of light on the relations existing between President Arthur and Senator Teller The secretaryship story does not find as many believers in the shadow of the White House as here in Denver but then the people of the national capital are a race of skeptics They have no sufficient idea of the greatness and the willingness of our senior senator

The Alleged Bargain

Denver Tribune

There is a deal of cool effrontery in the proposition which comes from Washington that Mr Teller is to go into the cabinet if Mr Chaffee is appointed to succeed him in the senate It is an assumption that the position of United States senator can be traded off as though it were a piece of property by the person who holds it We sincerely hope that Senator Teller will make a prompt denial of the alleged bargain

South Pueblo's Candidate

South Pueblo Republican

Among the many men of ability and character from whom the governor would have to select may be mentioned the Hon Geo M Chilcott, of Pueblo, whose services to the party and state are conceded by none, while in point of fitness for the position, ability energy, decision of character and an irreproachable record he stands pre-eminent His appointment would reflect credit not only upon the entire state, but also upon the governor's good judgment

Democratic Opinion

Fort Collins Express

"Moss Agate" the Washington correspondent of the Denver Republican telegraphs from the capital that Senator Teller will within a few days be appointed as secretary of the interior to succeed Kirkwood This is a general surprise, for while Colorado's claims to a cabinet position have been considered of the very best, no one for a moment expected that the lightning would strike Mr Teller The appointment should it be made would be an eminently wise and fitting one The president would secure an able advisor, while Colorado would secure a deserved honor

Leadville Sentiment

Leadville Herald

The prevailing sentiment of Leadville is undoubtedly in favor of Mr Chaffee to fill the senatorial vacancy There can be no objection to Mr Chaffee's appointment, except the one fact that it will have a tendency to cause the continuance of the fight, which as the appointment of Governor Routt would result in a healing of the differences inasmuch as Senator Hill can have no objection to Routt as a senator if he supported him for a cabinet position and has even a stronger objection to Chaffee than he has to Teller The consolidation of the party is a most important matter just now

A Pointer

Mountain Mail

There is one point to be taken into consideration that may have some influence in filling the vacancies at January, and that is the appointment that may be made by Governor Pitkin to fill the vacancy caused by the retirement of Senator Teller That Pitkin will strive to secure an election next winter there can now be no question and that the appointment of Teller's successor will be made with that object in view there is no good reason to doubt If he appoints any one of the two or three men from the southern part of the state who are recognized aspirants for senatorial honors it will be giving that one a prestige to Pitkin's disadvantage, and if he does not appoint a southern man but takes some man from the northern part of the state, his own friends in the south will go back on him.

Appointment of Chaffee

Denver Republican

The nomination of Mr Chaffee to be cabinet officer hits appointment in the southern states will not be acceptable to the republicans of Colorado This was clearly shown by the expressions of the republican journals of the state when recently his name and that of Governor Routt were prominently mentioned in connection with a cabinet appointment Mr Chaffee has for the last decade resided in this state by an almost continuous absence of nearly three years He would likely be very much less eligible as senator from New York than from Colorado He has nothing in common with our people not with the party He is unknown to more than one half of the people of the state save as a man who would take pleasure in distributing political monuments in Colorado from his home in New York city He has not helped the party in the state in any of its later close and bitter contests and therefore has no claims either upon us as a state or the republicans as a party

A Good Appointment

Denver Tribune

That the appointment of Senator Teller to the interior department will be an entirely respectable one nobody will deny That it will be, to a considerable extent a practical one nobody will deny Senator Teller is an entirely honest man in his financial dealings His administration of the affairs of the department will be free from anything like jobbery He will bring to the conduct of its affairs knowledge of western matters which has not usually belonged to the head of the department which is almost exclusively western in all respects the selection of Mr Teller would be good

Master Hand of Chaffee

Fairplay Flumgent

In the appointment of Teller to a cabinet position (if such be the fact) we see the master hand of Chaffee If he could not be made secretary of the interior by reason of the howling protests of a set of Colorado journalistic dervishes he had influence enough to put his Blue Atchison in the place which was the next best thing he could do Teller now rests under a double obligation to his once colleague for unless it had accorded with Chaffee's wishes he would never have been a United States senator

OMAHA & DENVER SHORT LINE.

Its Convenience to Colorado Business Men.

Commencing Sunday, November 6, 1881, the Union Pacific company will run a fast Omaha express through between Denver and Omaha daily, over the recently constructed Julesburg cut-off

Leaving Denver (breakfast)	8 00 a m
Arrive at Sterling (dinner)	1 20 p m
Arrive at North Platte	7 40 p m
Arrive at Omaha	7 30 a m
Arrive at Council Bluffs (breakfast)	8 00 p m
Arrive at Chicago (Chicago time)	6 30 a m

Time, Denver to Omaha, twenty three and one-half hours, time, Denver to Chicago, forty six hours

This new route is 186 miles shorter than any rival, six hours the quickest to Omaha, seven to fifteen hours the quickest to Chicago, St Louis and all points east, and it runs the finest trains ever built constructed by the Pullman company expressly for this line. They embody every feature of safety, convenience and luxury yet attained in railway equipment. It is the only through line possessing a water grade across the plains (averaging less than ten feet to the mile) It is the most picturesque route, has the best dining stations, the heaviest steel rails, best iron bridges and most careful ballasting

Passengers from Leadville, Gunnison, San Juan and all points in southern Colorado make close connection in the Union depot, Denver, and arrive in Chicago and all eastern cities soons to have a full day for business on the day of arrival, practically saving from twelve to twenty four hours, and avoiding all night changes

Meantime the old Kansas Pacific route, now Kansas division Union Pacific railway, to Kansas City and all points east and southeast, and the Pioneer Union Pacific route from Denver, via Cheyenne, to Omaha and the east and northeast, maintain their usual standard of excellence. ABE ROBERTS,
Proprietor of Mountaineer.

A large number of lock boxes will shortly be added to the postoffice.

The regular exercises of the spring term of Colorado College opened yesterday.

Messrs. W. E. Hpward & Co. have disposed of their grocery business to Messrs. J. Bridestone & Son.

Gen. H. G. Thomas of the U. S. A., and formerly a resident of Colorado Springs, was in the city yesterday.

Colorado Springs, according to the Denver Republican, stands a pretty good chance for the military encampment.

Go to the Pike's Peak dry goods emporium and see the new and beautiful spring dress goods, wraps and Easter cards.

Milton Nobles' company will be the next attraction at the opera house Friday and Saturday, March 31st and April 1st.

Mr. Christian Vechting, of Milwaukee, Wisconsin, is spending a few days in the city. He is stopping at the Colorado Springs hotel.

Messrs. Ferris & Jones of the Pike's Peak dry goods emporium announce that they have just received a large assortment of dress goods, wraps and Easter cards.

The base ball season will shortly open in earnest and Colorado Springs has a nine that will aim to hold the championship as it did last year. The boys will shortly go into active service.

Mr. H. G. Gary, the gunsmith, was unexpectedly called east yesterday by a telegram conveying the information that one of his family was seriously ill. He will remain absent for a few days.

Bishop Spalding delivers the fifth lecture in the lecture course at Grace Episcopal church to-night. There will be noonday service at 12.35 and the rite of confirmation will be administered at three this afternoon.

Messrs. M. Bodeman and S. B. Westerfield are now at Salida looking about for a suitable business location. From what the Mountain Mail says of them they are exceedingly well pleased with Salida and its future prospects.

To day at 9 o'clock a. m. there will be offered for sale two sections of fine timber and farming land at the east door of the court house. Here is an opportunity to purchase some of the best land in the state.

Messrs. G. L. Turner and J. L. Dunn have rented the building next to Nicee's drug store and on Monday will open a stock of paints, oils, papers, etc. They also contract for all kinds of painting, paper-hanging and kalsomining.

Mr. L. P. Truss, who for some time past has held a responsible position on the Leadville Chronicle, is sojourning for a few days in Colorado Springs. After a short vacation he will accept a position which has been tendered him on the Denver Tribune.

Dr. Willis Lord lectures at the M. E. church to-night on "One Earth Nineteen Centuries Ago." The lecture is for the benefit of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union. The lecture is said to be a very interesting one and probably there will be a large audience present.

At a meeting of the Manitou town board held last night the contract for the erection of the new engine house and calaboose was let to Mr. Angus Gillis for $1,725. Messrs. Turgon & Curly were awarded the contract for the work. Mr. A. C. Willard's plans were adopted and work will be begun on the building immediately.

There seems to be a diversity of opinion as to the most suitable fire alarm system to be introduced by our city council. Some seem to think that the telephone system will be the best, while others advocate the introduction of the regular telegraph alarm system now in use at Denver. Some system will probably be adopted at the next meeting of the city council.

Travellers passing over the mesa road report that Mr. Finlay who occupies the grout cottage just beyond the Monument has constructed a fence directly across the road thus cutting off travel in that direction. It is very necessary that this road should be kept open to the public and a petition will be sent to the county commissioners at their next meeting asking that the road be declared a public highway.

To the Voters of Colorado Springs, Without Regard to Party.

All those who are opposed to the contemplated system of sewerage, but favor sanitary regulations necessary for the health, and cleanliness of the city; that are opposed to interfering with the prohibition ordinance, and approve the policy maintained by the present mayor and council; that are in favor of such taxation only as is indispensable to the economical administration of the city affairs; that are in favor of an ample water supply for irrigation purposes and an equitable distribution of the same to all parts of the city without distinction, are cordially invited to meet in convention at Court House hall on the twenty-eighth (28th) day of March, A. D. 1882, at half-past seven o'clock in the evening, to nominate candidates for mayor, city treasurer, and one alderman for each ward of the city. Every such voter is urged to be present, and participate in the deliberations of the convention.
